H. L. Quattlebaum named president of Ogeechee FB; Harold Miller is VP

H. L. Quattlebaum was named president of the Ogeechee Farm Bureau Tuesday night. George Harold Miller was elected vice president and I. V. Simmons secretary and treasurer. Roy Kelly, chairman of the nominating committee, made the report suggesting these officers for that community chapter for 1955. Other members of the committee were also former presidents, C. W. Zetrower and W. A. Hodges.

Frank T. Proctor, the retiring president, thanked the entire group for their cooperation this year and urged just as good or better cooperation with the new officers.

Mrs. George E. Miller presented the annual Christmas program which consisted of some group Christmas songs, a reading by Peggy Miller and a duet by Peggy and Faye Simmons. She then presented a playlet composed of most of the children in the community illustrating the favorite form of celebrating Christmas in some 25 countries of the world.

All these children then group on the stage to sing some Christmas carols while another group was setting up a nativity scene back of them. When the entire group assembled around the crib and complete the series of carols, the scene became one of the most impressive Christmas skits seen at the month.

Frank Parr, Statesboro accountant, enumerated the various changes in farm income tax reporting for this year and the need for getting ready for the social security program at Nevada Wednesday night.

The present system of depreciating farm machinery, especially new machinery, has been improved on where the owner can take more depreciation while the machine is new and no repair bills are needed, he pointed out. Lasting breeding cattle and hogs for depreciation was also recommended, take full advantage of the soil and water earth moving features of the 1954 returns, and check on the changes of certain dependencies, Mr. Parr said.

The possibility of submitting an adjusted return for 1953 and helping to procure some of the taxes paid back brought forth more interest in the Nevils group than any other discussion. Social security will be available to farmers on a mandatory basis starting in 1954, Mr. Parr stated. Employers will need to deduct two per cent from the wage hands pay, or anyone they pay as much as $100 in 1954, and then match this deduction. These returns will probably be made quarterly.

will make their returns at the end of the year when they make their income tax returns at the rate of three per cent of their income.

Mr. Parr urged everyone to procure a social security card now and maintain at least a day book or some form of record on money paid out to every employee.

An individual can start drawing social security benefits after they reach 65 years of age, if they are not making $1,200 or more, provided they have paid in to the fund for six quarters. When you get 72 years old, you may draw social security to the limit of your participation in the fund regardless of how much you are making, he stated.

V. J. Rowe reported that the work on the rural telephone lines was moving along as fast as could be expected and predicted it would be around April 1 before all the lines would be completed.

Gordon Hendrix, Nevils president, stated that a program on feeding and caring for livestock had been arranged for January.

The Ivanhoe club held its annual Christmas party Friday night, instead of the January 7 meeting. Gifts for everyone were placed on the tree. A beautiful Christmas supper was served before the gifts were given out.

No Room At The Inn

Beauty and drama, shepherds and wise men. These and the story of a miracle are colorfully portrayed on many of the loveliest Christmas cards you'll see this year. Manger scenes, the Holy Land itself, Mary and Joseph seeking shelter at the inn have all been recreated—as they may have looked on that first Christmas Eve. Like the inspired Renaissance artists, Christmas card designers, too, have found the Madonna and Child an irresistible subject. Rich twilight color combinations accent the serene reverence these handsome designs convey.

At bottom-center, the Magi's desert route is reproduced on sturdy parchment similar to that used in medieval monasteries. A Christmas creche peopled by wax figurines was photographed in full color, bottom-right. While countless other graphic arts techniques also help enhance the meaning of St. Luke's familiar words—"And she laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn."

Recreation Program Makes Progress During This Year

1954—A YEAR OF PROGRESS FOR RECREATION
By JIM FRANKLIN
STATESBORO HI-OWL

The year 1954 will go down in the history of the Statesboro Recreation Program as the year when more progress has been made than during any time since 1948.

Looking back over the year one finds many highlights in the program which have helped to make it one of the most well-rounded small city programs in the south.

For the first time a well-balanced basketball program including children and adults was made with the introduction of a county-wide basketball league for Bulloch county men.

1954 saw the continuation of the men's softball program with this particular phase of the program branching out from only local participation to participation on a county-wide scale for men. This brought to a grand total of more than 500 participants in the program.

The organization of a football league for small boys below the midget age was seen in 1954, and for the first time this league was fully equipped and was under full time supervision.

While 1954 was a year of progress for sports the Recreation Department points with pride to the fact that the well-rounded program depends on sports and contests to attract only about a third of the participants in the program.

This year all phases of social recreation were continued with the popular square dance program for adults continuing to grow in popularity. This phase of the program is operated by the department for an approximate cost of $2,000 annually with the participants paying the total cost of the program.

The newly organized Tween Teen Club for boys and girls 13 through 15 years of age has continued to grow in size and popularity until it is the most popular and organized social club in the program.

Since no funds are available for a Girl Scout program the Recreation Department has assumed the responsibility of Girl Scouting in this area and since 1949 when there was only one Girl Scout troop in Statesboro until today the department reports that in the winter of 1954 the girl scout program has grown until it includes a paid part time worker to supervise the activities and has on roll over 150 Girl Scouts in 11 troops with more than 20 volunteer leaders. This year the swimming pool building was renovated and two modern well equipped scout rooms were made available for the Scouts. The Girl Scout troops must daily in this building. Thus the department takes advantage of every facility to the fullest extent the year round.

OUR YOUTH... Kemp Mabry

(Editorial Note: The Rev. John Kemp, pastor of Trinity Park Church in Savannah, has served as the principal speaker at the annual Christmas service at the church in Statesboro last Tuesday and we pass along some of his thoughts to you at Christmas time.)

Last Sunday morning I saw an eight-year-old boy in Sunday school and I asked him "What do you want for Christmas?" Before I had finished the question, he glibly answered, "I want a cow, a pig, a turkey, a real live doggie."

Ask almost any small child what he wants for Christmas and he will give you a list of things that are not things that a child should want. But when we direct the question, "What do you want for Christmas?" to older people, the answers are more indirect, obscure and confused. Some even say, "I just want to get it over." Some never hear any Christmas bells except the jingle of cash register bells.

What do you want for Christmas? I can't answer that question for you but I can tell you what I want this Christmas.

First, I want to hear again those words of the angel saying, "Fear not, in Jesus we have 'Good tidings of great joy, in knowing that He is with us always, even until the end of the age.'"

And then, at this Christmas season, I want to be inspired by the celestial choir singing "Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace, good will toward men."

No song or choir ever had a more sacred and important message as this. It is the message of the heavenly host.

There is something else I want this Christmas. I want to know the things which we have to be thankful for. When one thinks of his many blessings, deep down inside there is a feeling of warmth and contentment, and he tends to forget about those things he doesn't have. Looking around the community you say to yourself, "Mother, I love your beautiful hair, your beautiful eyes and your beautiful face, but oh, Mother, your hands are ugly." It was then that the mother told the child how she had rescued her from her burning room when she was a few weeks old. In doing so her hands were badly burned, but they were burned in saving the child's life. The child then said, "Mother, I love your beautiful hair, eyes and face, but Mother, I love your hands most of all."

The shepherds in the long ago were so impressed by the Saviour that they went and told others of the blessed birth. This Christmas I want to see my Saviour clearer than ever before, and also want to tell others about Him.

I want to give my gifts to Jesus along with the wise men. They were real, because they brought their best to Jesus. Wise men today will do the same thing. Even as the wise men of old brought gifts of gold, frankincense, and myrrh, I want to give to Jesus the gifts of my time, my talents and my possessions.

What shall I give Him, poor as I am?

If I were a shepherd, I would give a lamb, because they are mine. If I were a Wise Man, I would give my best; but such as I have I'll give to him.

I'll give Him my heart.

What do you want for Christmas?

New Plastic Fabric to Brighten Home

An old table is inexpensively made presentable with a new adhesive-backed plastic fabric shown in a marble pattern.

By Comark Plastic Division of Cohn-Hall-Mark Company in conjunction with Monsanto Chemical Company, is available in two tones of wood grain, three shades of marble, stripes, checks and kitchen and nursery prints.

The adhesive-backed plastic fabric is said to require neither water nor paint. The paper backing, which is peeled off after being cut to the desired shape, has application instructions, and is marked in squares to guide cutting. Con-Tact, which is water-proof, may be cleaned with soap and water, according to the manufacturer. It is suggested for use in covering wastebaskets and table tops and in waterproofing splash areas in kitchens and bathrooms.

Priced at 59 cents a yard, the plastic fabric comes in eighteen-inch widths and is available at MINKOVITZ.

IT SEEMS TO ME... Max Lockwood

I heard a song the other day which says something about when you are trying to go to sleep try counting your blessings instead of counting sheep and this made me think that this is really a good time of the year to look back over the past few months and make a check of the things which we have to be thankful for. When one thinks of his many blessings, deep down inside there is a feeling of warmth and contentment, and he tends to forget about those things he doesn't have. Looking around the community you say to yourself, "Mother, I love your beautiful hair, your beautiful eyes and your beautiful face, but oh, Mother, your hands are ugly." WHAT DOES IT MEAN? The Golden Rule. The Golden Rule of life, the Golden Rule of health, the Golden Rule of God and the Brotherhood of Man.

Rule is the basic religious concept of all the great religions of the earth. Moses handed it down to the children of Israel. Christ proclaimed it to His followers throughout the world. Buddha, Confucius and Aristotle have their basic teachings in this Golden Rule.

The sphere, which like the deity, has no beginning and no end, typifies the universe in that the earth, sun, moon, stars and all the constellations, even the smallest atom, are in spherical form, and in a simple way represents the universality of God.

If the Golden Rule ideal were adopted by the nations of the world it would bring into realization the one great hope of mankind of Peace on Earth and Good Will Toward Men.

Christmas comes too soon for most of us; we remember what Christmas is

By MRS. W. H. MORRIS

Christmas has come too soon for most of us, where work and shopping is concerned. I had so many things planned to do, most of which won't get done. But I think the most important thing is to remember what Christmas really means. The best gift we give are not anything compared to the gift of God to us. In our church, I am teaching very small children, and just four days before the program I gave out the last of the program parts, and the children are first year primary age. I just knew they wouldn't learn their parts as they should, and so I worried, and yes, prayed they would know their parts like they should, so last Friday, December 17, we had the program, and it was wonderful the way they knew their parts. So it goes to show the things we worry about are not worth our time. There is an old saying that at Christmas the cows bow down as if in prayer, and as I read this little poem it brought this old saying to mind.

ARRIVAL

By ETHEL HOPE HODSON

"He's here," a brown cow softly moaned.
"The Little Lord is here!"
"But where," a dark-grey donkey asked.
"Way off, or very near?"
"Real close," declared a baby lamb.
"With white and woolly head."
"Oh, let's go quietly and look," the oxen slowly said.
So each, on midnight's stroke of twelve,
Came of its own accord;
Then, bending knees and bowing heads,
Adored the Little Lord.

I would like to wish all my readers a very "Merry Christmas," and a "Happy New Year."

Doll collection is highlight of doll show at TC

A collection entered by two little Savannah girls was the highlight of a Doll Show at the Georgia Teachers College Laboratory School, December 9. The Doll Show, which was sponsored by the Georgia Teachers College Laboratory School, was designed as a fund-raising project, to make it possible for the local chapter to send a delegate to the national study conference of the Association for Childhood Education, which will be held in Kansas City, Missouri, in April.

A program, "Dancing Dolls," was presented by the primary music methods class under the direction of Mr. Dan Hooley, assistant professor of music at GTC. The Savannah girls who have such an amazing doll collection are Marlene Nelson, 12, and Patty Nelson, nine, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Nelson, 653 East 37th street.

Their doll collection began on Marlene's first Christmas when she was only 25 days old. Her first doll, a gift from an aunt, and the angel doll from her Christmas tree started the collection. The angel doll has been used each year since, on the top of her Christmas tree.

The foreign dolls were sent by an uncle, Bill Donnelly, of Savannah, while he was in the armed forces in Europe. Dolls from England, France, Germany and Switzerland are in the collection. Some of the most unusual are a wax doll in a velvet dress from Paris, a music doll from England, and a group of hand-carved wooden dolls made by displaced Hungarians. There are also Seminole and Cherokee Indian dolls, Mexican dolls and cowboys and cowgirls collected by the children or members of their family on vacation trips in America.

The oldest doll belonging to these little girls is over 75 years old; it is made of china and once belonged to their Grandmother Donnelly.

To win the prize for the most original display, Ann Turner, a student at the Laboratory School, entered a collection of more than 20 dolls and displayed them as a wedding scene, with stained glass windows in the background and a bride and groom with the other dolls in attendance. Bebe Beasley, Joyce Clark, and Mary Sue Wilson also entered dolls.

Nevils News

Christmas program features Nevils Youth Fellowship meeting Sunday p.m.

By MRS. JIM ROWE

The Nevils Youth Fellowship held their regular meeting Sunday night with a large group attending. A very interesting Christmas program was arranged by Jane and Julia Bragan.

The group chose for their Christmas project a box containing the essential wearing apparel for school, to be packed by all members giving an article, which will be mailed to a little Bulloch County boy who is at the Academy for the Blind at Macon, Georgia.

Plans were made for presenting the annual Christmas Church program on Thursday night, December 23, at the Nevils Methodist Church.

The group also made plans for their Christmas social which was presented last night. The Glee Club of Nevils School will be special guests at the social.

The candlelight ceremony was held for the installation of new officers. After the ceremony several Christmas games were played and enjoyed by all. The room was decorated with a beautiful lighted tree and each table was decorated with a lighted candle with silver holly holders. Dainty Christmas refreshments were served by the hostess and co-hostesses. Everybody enjoyed exchanging gifts and to learn who their secret star was.

The January meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Ruel Clifton with Mrs. Jack Brannen and Mrs. J. O. Alford as co-hostesses.

Complete costumes with shoes, hats and other accessories to match. Her doll was judged queen in the show. Dale Anderson of the Sally Zetterlow School, had the prettiest doll.

Mrs. Charles Ellison of Sardis is spending this week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Burns and Jr.

You...and your Income Tax

DIVIDENDS

The first $50 of dividends from a domestic corporation, received by a calendar year taxpayer in 1954, need not be reported as income. If on a joint return the husband and wife receive dividends of $50 each, the dividend exclusion would be $100. A credit of 4 per cent of dividends received after July 31, 1954 (not counting the excludable amount) is also allowed, but not to exceed 2 per cent of taxable income in 1954. Dividends from life insurance companies, foreign corporations, tax exempt corporations, mutual savings banks, building and loan associations and farmers' cooperatives do not qualify for the dividend exclusion.

CHILD CARE

Child care expense, which is necessary to enable taxpayer to be gainfully employed, are deductible to $600 for the care of a child under 12 years old or for a dependent mentally or physically incapable of caring for himself. This deduction is allowable to women, widowers and men, who are legally separated or divorced, provided the payment is not made to a person, who is a dependent. Certain limitations apply to the working wife unless her husband is mentally or physically incapable of self support. The husband and wife must file a joint return and the amount by which their adjusted gross income exceeds $4,500 is deducted from the $600 deduction. Thus, adjusted gross income of $4,800, the maximum deduction would be $300. ($600 minus $4,800 minus $4,500).

Troop 40 of Boy Scouts camp out

Camp boys at the local air-... One for their city kinfolk, who had electricity to run time-saving electrical appliances—another for their "country cousins"—who didn't.

That's all been changed. For it's almost certain, the rural folks on your gift list now enjoy low-cost, non-profit, electric power. 230,000 of them do! They are member-owners of Georgia's 41 Cooperative Electrical Systems.

Put-it took COOPERATION to make this possible! Even after REA was formed—and the profit-utilities could borrow federal funds to serve rural areas, they insisted the job could NOT be done—profitably!

That was when the Rural Electric Co-ops were formed—by the same people they now serve. Today 92 per cent of all Rural Georgians enjoy the comforts of electric power.

And it hasn't cost the taxpayer one cent! Georgia's Electric Co-ops are repaying REA loans on, or before time—with INTEREST! They pay taxes, too! That's why we continue to say . . .

Co-op Power Is Good For Ga.

Stock up for the Holidays

Nineteen hundred and fifty-four years ago—they weren't shopping

By VIRGINIA RUSSELL

Nineteen hundred and fifty-four years ago or thereabouts the little town of Bethlehem was overflowing with people. The overflow of people weren't Christmas shoppers. They weren't winter tourists or football fans. They were taxpayers belonging to the house of David and they had come from afar and from near to pay taxes to Caesar.

These travelers hadn't come by train, or plane, or by car on good highways. They had come on foot or on mule back by way of a rough

Safety Tips

Rules for Safe Walking

1. Carry or wear something white at night to help drivers see you.
2. Cross only at crosswalks. Keep to the right in the crosswalk.
3. Before crossing, look both ways. Be sure the way is clear before you cross.
4. Cross only on proper signal.
5. Watch for turning cars.
6. Never go into the roadway from between parked cars.
7. Where there is no sidewalk, and it is necessary to walk in the roadway, always walk on the left side—facing traffic.

every good thing you've heard about him or her. Tell only the good things. Tell a friend you love her or him. These gifts will never be forgotten and will make the receiver rich while other gifts will soon be forgotten.

Let us be the shepherds and the men at this season so that we hear again the good tidings and then let us pass the news on.

But Christ's birth was made known to a group of quiet shepherds. Angels came in the still, beautiful, crisp, star-lit night and sang, "Peace on earth, good will to men." The shepherds heard and believed and hurried to find the baby.

There was a star, a new star in the sky. A bright, beautiful star that shone above the stable. There were wise men—men who spent their time studying and learning. They knew the heavens and studied the stars. They saw the new bright star. They sold their belongings and traveled a great distance to find the baby. They brought gifts and laid them at his feet.

Every since that day, people have had an opportunity to believe. It is the greatest choice man has to make. Whether to believe that Christ, the baby, Christ the man, Christ the Son of God, one and the same, is our Savior. For some it is easy, for some it is hard.

Today as almost two thousand years ago it may be the ones who have time to consider and ponder who will hear the angels sing again, "Peace On Earth, Good Will to Men."

For those of us who believe that Christmas is a spiritual time, let us live as we believe. May our gifts be gifts of love. As someone asked, "If I meant to pray for a friend as a Christmas present how would I let her know?" Well, she'd know, but she'd feel good to have you write her a card saying so.

Another way to give gifts would be to begin telling every good thing you knew. Tell every friend

Your age tells on you the day after Christmas

By VIRGINIA RUSSELL

It's all in one's years how he feels the day after Christmas. The youngsters feel an awful letdown, the old folks feel released, except for the arrival of the bills come January first.

"No thank you, I don't care for any," the youngest boy said. "I just don't know what's wrong, but I don't feel much like eating." I was amazed because the turkey tasted twice as good as it had the first day.

Later the second boy said, "Why do I feel so depressed? I just feel all-in," he added.

I said nothing because I was a little ashamed to admit it. I was beginning to feel free, easy and just plain good. Now I could enjoy the family and there'd be no tensions.

For, preach to ourselves almost getting things done early as much as we will, it seems that in the end those last hours are crowded. At least that's the way it is at this house.

The Papa complicated things considerably here by taking to his bed for the whole week before Christmas. I consoled him at first by saying "This thing is just a twenty-four hour affair—everybody's having it." Of course, the doctor, being smart, didn't give the illness a name (He has grown sensitive I think about the joking about other husbands and discover how they react to sickness). I'd hate to think this man of mine was one-of-a-kind in this respect. Anyhow, it was hard to get Christmas jobs done with one's helper in bed.

Then my present to this particular man was to be a re-decorated study. I was so excited over this gift but I had undertaken a hard one, I know. I finished both walls of book cases and had put all the books back on the shelves. There were only two walls to go. I started off on them with a great determination. The telephone rang several times, the front door had to be answered and the sick had to be tended. I forgot to stir the point after each interruption and the result is modernistic in the extreme with streaks of pale green, light green and dark green. Now that Christmas is over the gift will have to be retouched or repainted. But what can an amateur expect?

The preacher son fixed the toilet seat for his gift to the family. It had been broken for a year and one could never be sure whether it stay on the bowl or slide off. After he had secured the part to fix the seat he decided that a paint job was in order here, too, so he removed the whole affair and took it to the back yard. Several accidents resulted from the missing toilet seat. It is amazing what habit does to people.

Then the youngest one changed her mind about what Santa Claus should bring. She had written him a record player and a Mister Potato Head. About three days before Christmas she added a pogo stick to her list. Her father, feeling stern from his bed said children shouldn't get everything they had to you for and disappointments were helpful, etc. But her mother remembered that eight-year-olds grow sophisticated too soon in this age wanted to please her if possible. Santa Claus was contacted and after much searching in many locations and localities the old fellow found one last pogo stick.

These were only a few of the happenings in an average American family. Is it any wonder that parents begin to enjoy Christmas on December 26?

New edition of Postal rules is now available

Postmaster Arthur Turner of Statesboro today called to the attention of mail users major new postal regulations which were issued effective December 1, which will provide important changes and simplifications in the use of the mails.

The Post Office Department is issuing a final edition of a history-making new postal manual which contains these changes in simple form. The new manual will bring together in less than 300 pages public-interest postal regulations formerly scattered through 4,000 pages of dense print, Postmaster Turner explained.

This publication may be obtained at 60 cents a copy from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington 25, D.
